A GUIDE FOR IVY TECH TRANSFER STUDENTS

TAKE YOUR IVY TECH DEGREE TO A NEW LEVEL

Earning a four-year undergraduate degree in business can open new career doors for any professional, especially those who have successfully completed an associate business degree at Ivy Tech Community College-Central Indiana. Consider these facts about job opportunities and earnings for graduates with four-year degrees:

- According to WorldWideLearn, an online directory of education, workers with bachelor's degrees can expect to earn at least $15,000 more per year than those with associate's degrees.
- Comparing wages earned during the working life of an adult, the U.S. Census Bureau reports those with bachelor's degrees earn about $2.1 million, while associate's degree holders earn $1.6 million.
- The job market for business professionals is very promising, especially for accountants. The market shortfall for accountants is expected to continue through 2014.
- Forty-three percent of jobs in financial fields require at least a bachelor's degree.

You can build upon your Ivy Tech associate's degree or courses by enrolling in the Kelley School of Business Indianapolis. Please note that transfer is possible with or without a degree. A framework for transfer of credits, often referred to as an articulation agreement, exists between Ivy Tech and Kelley, making enrollment easier for Ivy Tech transfer students.

Because there are a variety of different paths Ivy Tech students can take to attend Kelley, Kelley Indianapolis has dedicated a member of its Office of Advising staff to work individually with Ivy Tech students on enrollment issues and to answer questions that may arise during the transfer and enrollment process.

“Transferring to Kelley was convenient.

So much of my Ivy Tech education transferred that I was able to get started right away on my higher level courses for my bachelor’s degree.”

—Ariel Cember, CIS major, Kelley School of Business and Ivy Tech transfer student

ABOUT THE KELLEY SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Accredited by The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business, Kelley Indianapolis is one of the finest undergraduate business programs in the nation.
